

End of Life Planning

End of life planning is important to ensure that the dying person's wishes are honored during this time. This section provides articles and resources to help as you and your family discuss end of life considerations such as individualized medical orders, palliative and hospice care, and any funeral or memorial arrangements.

View PDF